Gold Crown Foundation partners with No Limits Volleyball

Lakewood, CO, July 1st, 2015 – The Gold Crown Foundation and No Limits Volleyball are pleased to announce their partnership in order to further develop youth volleyball in the state of Colorado.

These two organizations have a history of attracting youth in the Denver Metro area to their outstanding volleyball leagues and tournaments throughout the year. They will now work together to cross promote programs, collaborate on new events, share successful ideas, and resolve youth volleyball issues.

“Gold Crown is excited to expand our efforts by joining forces with No Limits Volleyball,” said Senior Program Director Jeff Petty. “Gold Crown’s mission has always been to provide opportunities for Colorado youth and with the help of No Limits Volleyball, we can reach additional demographics in the region.”

“Since we first started No Limits Volleyball more than five years ago, we have aspired to form a synergistic relationship with the Gold Crown Foundation,” said founder Tracy Dudley. “ Why? Because we have very similar philosophies: we want to make it possible for all Colorado youth to play sports, whereby sports are a positive and rewarding life experience.”

No Limits Volleyball, Inc. is a Colorado non-profit corporation and Federal 501(c)3 organization started in 2009 that provides the largest variety of youth volleyball programs in the state. They provide low-price, high-quality competitive volleyball using paid professional volleyball coaches.

The Gold Crown Foundation, is a non-profit 501(c)3 public charity founded in 1986 by former NBA great Bill Hanzlik and Colorado business leader Ray Baker. The Gold Crown Field House is located in Lakewood but Gold Crown’s programs span across the Colorado Front Range.
